

More Stations By Location ▼ SIGN UP FOR NEWSLETTERS

CBS Local Rewards 1

Login | Register

Search

SPONSORED BY

FOLLOW US [Facebook] [Twitter] [Google+]

Home On-Air Music Pics Events Contests Playlist

Love is about timing. Your time is now.

$599 is a small price to pay for love. Get started with a personal matchmaker.

tawkify

Who Should Pay On A Date?

October 20, 2014 9:26 AM

Share

1

Tweet

1

Share

View Comments

(Photo by Joe Raedle/Newsmakers)

Related Tags: date, Who should pay on a date

When it comes to dating, men and women are pretty old-fashioned, at least as far as who they think should pay for the date. According to a recent study, 90-percent of men think the man should pay for everything on a first date.

And they're not getting much of an argument. Over 60-percent of women expect the man to pick up the tab, at least at the beginning of a relationship. Interestingly enough, even though most women offer to "go Dutch" on a first date, they also secretly want the guy to reject their offer. Some people think that sounds like a dating double-standard. But relationship expert April Masini says that old-fashioned traditions like that can help launch a new relationship in the right direction. That's because when the man pays on the first few dates, it sends a strong message that he's interested in pursuing a real relationship because he's literally investing in the couple's future. So guys, consider reaching for your wallet when you're dating someone new. Odds are it'll even out in the long run.

Read more at Tesh.com

EZ 103.1 Listen Live

TOP SPONSORED ARTICLES

Tricks Car Insurance Agents Don't Want You to Know

The Easiest Way to Learn About Local Sales Without Getting More Junk Mail

Top Shoe Styles for 2014